

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A virtual assistant is provided which outputs audible information to a user of a data terminal. A method is also provided for presenting audible information of a virtual assistant to the user of a data terminal. At least two electroacoustic
5 converters are driven such that the virtual assistant can be spatially positioned by a data terminal use to achieve acoustic separation between the electroacoustic converters and an additional sound source.